New Claus unit at Sisak Refinery put on trial run

The completion of the EUR 24 million first phase in the construction of a desulphurisation (Claus) unit at Sisak Refinery was announced at a press conference held at the refinery on 28 September 2007. At 10 a.m. on 19 September 2007, the unit was put on trial run. The construction of the unit, the contract for which was awarded to the Italian company Technip KTI in December 2005, has been completed on schedule. When the second phase is finished, the project will be worth EUR 32 million.

The purpose of this unit is strictly environmental protection and therefore it was given priority in the overall modernisation process of Sisak refinery.
